Bessette of Tulsa presided, an historian, and after a program of music from the girls of the association the evening was spent in dancing.

Although hours of present negotiations have been secret, it was known to all that the new president of the organization, the Oklahoma association, has recently been losing some of its members owing to the fact that wages had been clerks have not kept pace with the cost of living in the state. This matter was the subject of much discussion during the convention. The revision of the constitution and by-laws of the body was brought about at the business session and a report was received from the finance committee on the sick benefit work carried on by the association for the members.

Before adjournment the gathering adjourned to the Hotel Texaco and the Tulsa branch No. 188 for the reception tendered the visitors. Next year's convention will be held in Oklahoma City.

SEES RULE HELD BY PEOPLE NOW

The president declared that the day of secret councils was past because the people were in the saddle. The private counsels of statesmen, he added, would no longer determine the destinies of nations.

Hurehfeldt, in the glare of the world's gaze, was asked if he had any advice. "We must hold our nerve for more than half an hour most of the time in an impasse defense of the league of nations and in appeal for its support."

The president never faltered in his dictation. Earnestness pervaded his words. From a nearby point, Mrs. Wilson listened to her husband. She and the president drove to the riverbank for a few moments of contemplation, gazing across the sight of the waves against the vessel.

Capt. Bartlett H. Henserson, Boston, commanded the Saxonia.

Officers of the 36th division said the 36th suffered 2,600 casualties, including 21 officers and 469 men killed in action. Thirty won distinguished service crosses, 129 the Croix de Guerre and two were awarded the congressional medal of honor.

The division was credited with taking 5,000 prisoners and 140,000,000 worth of enemy uniforms.

More than 16,000 officers and men of the American expeditionary force arrived in New York on Memorial day, stepping ashore from the transatlantic Great Northern, Saxonia, Ridgeland, Moblie, Berkeley and Santa Clara. The majority were draft troops of the 8th, 88th and 89th divisions, the bulk of the others being former national guardmen of the 36th division.

Officers returning included Major Frank L. White, commanding the 8th, Brig. Gen. William W. Atterbury, who was director general of transportation of the American expeditionary forces in France, and Brigadier Generals A. B. Stewart, Arthur Johnson and George C. Barnard.

Neat Play Frocks For Small Girls

BY ELOISE.

sometimes.

Frocks for the small girl this summer are both quaint and practical. The children's wear is often embellished with plain cotton materials or have collars, cuffs and chemises of sheer white materials. Plain pink, blue, green, yellow or lavender chamboux are also made mainly and becoming by collar and cuff sets of white organdy, dimity, batiste or linen lawn.

Chickamauga, Ga., was at the front with the 26th sanitary train and salled on the Saxonia as a convalescent. On the first two days he answered roll calls but on the third, did not respond. Fellow troops said Kerr had experienced the dread of water and of falling overboard and that he had been observed peering at the rail for long periods of time apparently fascinated by the sight of the waves against the vessel.
